

Mrs. Robert Goelet (formerly Mme. Riabouchinsky-Fernanda Rocchi). Photographed on Park avenue. A. A. Brown.

New York's eastern gateway, viewed from the air. This photograph shows the famous Hellgate Bridge, connecting Long Island with the mainland. Blackwells (Welfare), Wards, Randalls and North and South Brother Islands can also be seen. In the distance stretches Long Island Sound.

(c) Major Hamilton Maxwell, from aeromarine flying boat.

The four Power Pacific Treaty, showing the seals and signatures of the principal delegates. Top to bottom: Secretary Hughes, Senator Lodge, Senator Underwood, Mr. Root, Mr. Balfour, Lord Lee, Ambassador Geddes, Sir Robert Borden, Sir G. F. Pearce, Sir J. W. Salmond, Mr. Balfour (for South Africa), Mr. Sastri, M. Viviani, M. Sarraut, Ambassador Jusserand, Baron Kato, Mr. Shidehara, Prince Tokugawa, Mr. Hanihara. (c) Harris & Ewing.

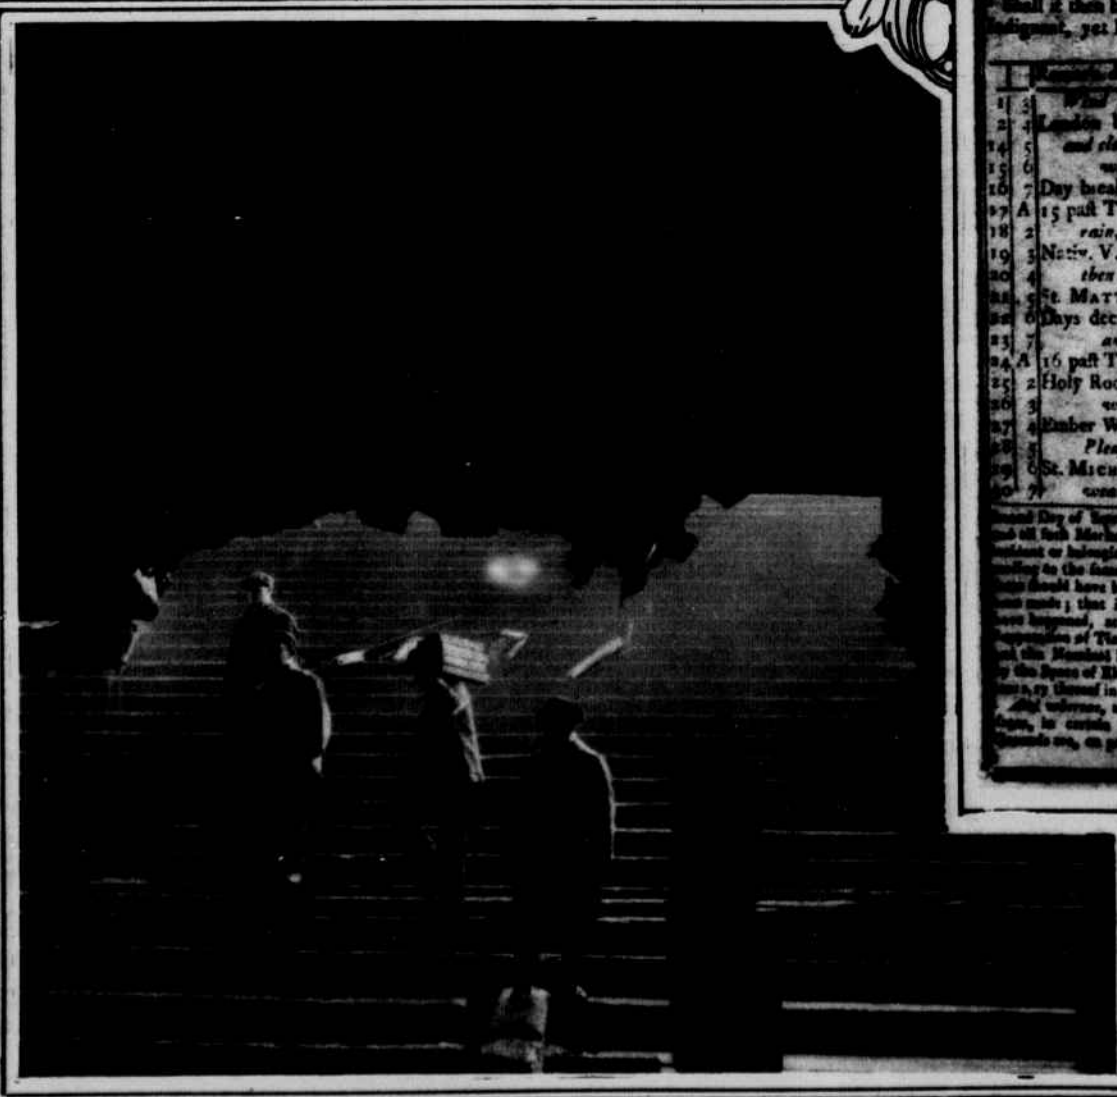

Fac simile of a page from "Poor Richard's Almanac," 1752, showing the precession of the calendar, the date having been advanced from September 2 to September 14. An article by Jacques W. Redway, F. R. G. S., proposing calendar reforms, was printed in THE HERALD on December 11.

Above—A youngster, and two dolls, furnished by "the hospital doll lady," are making one another's acquaintance in this photograph. The lady is Mrs. Conrad Bollinger, who devotes much time during the year to making Christmas dolls.

Paul Thompson.

At right—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., for Mrs. Rockefeller and himself, giving to Mrs. William Fellowes Morgan a check for $50,000 for the budget fund of the Y. W. C. A. Keystone View Co.

The American tanker F. D. Asche, which struck on Little Bahama Bank in a hurricane, is shown here at the Erie Basin plant of the Todd Shipyards Corporation for a survey. As her bottom was badly damaged, it was necessary to send down divers and make new plans before docking her.

Representative Alice Robertson of Oklahoma, directing repairs on her car in front of the Capitol on a cold morning, when the engine wouldn't start. (c) Harris & Ewing.